The Air Force has a well-established IG Complaints Program that allows you to obtain assistance quickly and fairly when you have a problem. The IG Complaints Program is addressed in AFI 90-301, Inspector General Complaints. This instruction informs you on procedures for filing a complaint. You may contact the IG at any level without notifying your chain of command. No one can prohibit your access to the IG. However, experience has demonstrated that commanders and supervisors can resolve complaints the best. For this reason, you are encouraged to discuss your problem with your supervisor or your commander before seeking assistance from the IG.
